Terms of Business

KHANDOKAR & CO.

A. Q. KHANDOKAR & HEIRS

Khandokar & Co Limited – Terms of Business

These are the standard terms of business between the client, hereinafter referred to as the “Client”, and Khandokar & Co Limited, company number 10058805 hereinafter referred to as “Khandokar”.

Documented immediately below are our standard terms of business. You only need to read and agree to those relevant to the product (s) you are purchasing from Khandokar.

In providing you with the service, we warrant to you that the services will be provided with reasonable care and skill and we will assist and support you where necessary. All works are subject to acceptance no liability taken on by Khandokar & Co for its advisory role and therefore in providing these services, we cannot guarantee that you will obtain and retain the results or outcomes to fulfil the objectives in course of seeking counsel.

Your Privacy

Other than as necessary to complete work with the client, we will not disclose your data to any other third party for marketing purposes. Furthermore we protect the sensitivity of the data provided and will only retain this for the period of time required to support you with further advisory positions that may be required from Khandokar.

Payment Options

Khandokar only accepts Bank Transfer, we do not charge VAT as the firm is exempt from VAT and is not registered for VAT purposes, therefore all invoices will not stipulate VAT.

All fees agreed with Khandokar will be non-refundable and must be paid into the account stipulated in the invoice prior to counsel.

Liability

Khandokar accepts no liability from the counsel that each of its clients obtain from time to time, it reserves the right to withhold any advise if it believes that it may cause any financial loss to its clients or any other forms which it identifies.

Agreement

Making payment to Khandokar for the nominal amount agreed via phone or email obliges the client to accept these terms that have been aforementioned above.
